THE OPEN COLUMN

For the League of Nations.

Editor the Missourian: Any man who tries to mould public opinion against the League of Nations is paving the way to another deluge of blood and a sacrifice of life and property.

That man has a coldblooded nature and a heart of stone, rather than a heart of sympathy and love for his fellow-men. He would not welcome the day when all nations, languages and tongues would unite in the worship of the one living and true God.

What should be done with a man whom God had created as a leader of men and given the talent of oratory, of a man whom the people of Missouri have honored with the exalted position of United States senator, when he uses his talent and his eloquence of speech to hypnotize and lead astray weaker minds from the League of Nations?

He should be cast into the outer darkness where there is weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth! This will be done at the first opportunity by the voters of Missouri.

This is a question that enters every home in the land and that deeply concerns every man, woman and child. We must enter a League of Nations, or we must support an enormous army at the expense of the taxpayers. The plan unquestionably is for an advance of civilization, and is a step which should be taken at the earliest possible moment.

It would go far toward making peace for the world and, if it does not make war impossible, it will make it very unpleasant for the instigator. It may not eliminate war entirely, but it will reduce the chance of war in the future and start the world on a new era of peace, prosperity and guaranteed liberties.

There is not a provision in the twenty-six articles which restricts a legitimate right of any sovereign nation or proposes a hardship on anyone.

The League of Nations, as unanimously agreed upon by a special commission of the Peace Conference made up of representatives of the United States and other countries, consists of a body of delegates and an executive council whose duty will be to arbitrate differences arising between nations, and, if possible, to prevent hostilities.

It also provides that the states not members of the league will be invited to join. If any member of the league breaks the provisions of the covenant, that state shall be immediately subjected to the severance of all trade, financial and social relations with other members of the league or with any state whether a member of the league or not.

We are happy to see former President Taft raising his voice in aid of the League of Nations and doing all he can to assist President Wilson in the adoption of this national and important question.

J. E. WRIGHT

Editor the Missourian: The statement was made in the Missourian the other night that the S.G.A. Council had voted to open up the ballot for the festival queen to all women students in the University. The reason stated was that the influenza situation made it impossible for some girls to pay their dues last semester.

As a matter of fact over 400 of the 575 women eligible for S.G.A. privilege paid their dues last semester, a larger percentage, by the way, than has ever paid before.

Several weeks before the petitions began to be circulated for festival queen a motion was made and carried in the woman's council depriving any girl who had not paid her S.G.A. dues from the right of voting. The other day, after the petitions were started, the council voted to retract the previous motion. The reasons, therefore, are obvious.

Just this small friction has put the election of the queen on such a basis that practically all honor of victory is taken away. The queen should be chosen first for the ideals for which she stands insofar as they are the expression of the best ideals of the student body; second, for her popularity and gracious appearance. She should be chosen as the University woman who stands for the finest in scholarship, social life and particularly in ideals. She should be the true representative of the student body. How many of the girls who are to vote Monday are going to think of that? They are going to think what part each candidate had in causing the variation of motions in the council—and vote accordingly.

Soon there are to be more student elections. The same trouble will arise, no doubt, and the merits of the candidates will become second to the politics involved. Seems to me that the only sensible and just thing to do is for an amendment to be made to the constitution, formulated in the council and voted upon by the whole student body, which will forever settle the status and requirements of the voter at student elections.

Maxwell

—a car of rare charm and—able

YOUR first impression of this present day Maxwell as it passes you on the street is one of decided beauty.

Your first ride in it, whether at the wheel or in the tonneau, tells you of its rare charm.

But after six months you find a new admiration for the Maxwell. You find it shuns the repair shop, that it runs and runs and never stops running.

Then after a year is past you develop an enthusiasm for it that dictionary words don't seem to fully describe.

And then after you have had it for more than the average life of a motor car and you find it far better than even the Maxwell salesman said it was you search for the reason.

This is what you find:

For 5 years Maxwell cars have been built on the single chassis plan. To date 300,000 have been turned out on this plan. Each car better than the other. Each one better looking than the other.

There have been more than 1000 refinements in the Maxwell, but never once have the Maxwell executives swerved from the original program.

You conclude that reliability was designed "into" the car and built "into" it, and that a policy of 300,000-all-alike is the soundest kind of reason for writing your check for a present day Maxwell.
